ABOUT THIS COFFEE

The Kantuta farm, located in the Yungas region of Caranavi, Bolivia, is owned by Mery Canaviri. With a total extension of 10 hectares, 3 of them are planted with coffee of the Catuai red variety. At an altitude of 1450 meters above sea level, the farm maintains a simple agroforestry system, with shade trees such as cedar and sikily, which contributes to the environment.

The Kantuta farm has a rich history of more than 40 years in coffee production, started by Mery Canaviri's grandparents. The name comes from the kantuta flowers that grow abundantly in the area, a flower that is a symbol of Bolivia. Over the years, the farm has been managed by different generations of the family, maintaining a focus on coffee cultivation. Over time, the farm has adapted its production methods, but always respecting family traditions.

Coffee production on the farm is carried out in an artisanal manner, with a focus on sustainable and environmentally friendly practices. Organic fertilizers are used to ensure soil fertility.
