

ABOUT THIS COFFEE

In Cauca, coffee is not only an exceptional beverage, but also a symbol of peace and resistance against violence and illicit crops.

Between harvests, growers work tirelessly to strengthen bonds of community. They are engaged in sustainable agricultural practices, energy recycling, transitional crop production, food sovereignty, production of minor species, and development projects that promote peace and social justice in the region.

The main harvest is concentrated in the months of April to June, and of which we collect about 70% of the coffee produced in the year, 30% is harvested in the months of September and December. In 2024, the production has increased compared to the previous year, due to the climatic conditions, agroforestry development and crop diversity. All of this have made it possible to sustain production and integrated pest and disease management biologically.
