ABOUT THIS COFFEE

Originating from the botanical garden of Coffea Diversa, this lot highlights the Maragogype 928 variety, a rare and distinctive expression of the Maragogype family within the project's botanical conservatory.

Coffea Diversa is a pioneering project founded in the early 2000s by José Padilla and Gonzalo Hernández, driven by a radically different vision of traditional coffee farming. Designed as a coffee botanical garden, the project focuses on preserving, observing, and showcasing coffee's genetic diversity through the cultivation of hundreds of rare botanical varieties. Today, Coffea Diversa hosts the world's largest private collection of coffee botanical varieties, with more than 800 specimens, only a portion of which are currently produced as micro-lots.

Maragogype 928 is a natural mutation of Typica, originally discovered in Brazil in the late 19th century.
