COFFEA DIVERSA MOKKA

Originating from the botanical garden of Coffea Diversa, this lot highlights the Mokka variety, a rare coffee with a distinctive botanical heritage, integrated into the project's genetic conservatory.

Coffea Diversa is a pioneering project founded in the early 2000s by José Padilla and Gonzalo Hernández, driven by a radically different vision of traditional coffee farming. Designed as a coffee botanical garden, the project focuses on preserving, observing, and showcasing coffee's genetic diversity through the cultivation of hundreds of rare botanical varieties. Today, Coffea Diversa hosts the world's largest private collection of coffee botanical varieties, with more than 800 specimens, only a portion of which are currently produced as micro-lots.
