SANTA FÉ

Mexico • Chiapas

ABOUT THIS COFFEE

Motozintla, located in the Sierra Madre de Chiapas, is a mountainous municipality in the province of Chiapas. The name Motozintla comes from the Nahuatl: mototl (squirrels) + zintl (hillside) + tla (place), which literally means "squirrel hillside".

Species	Arabica
Drying	12 days patios
Altitude	800 - 900
Harvest	November - February
Type of harvest	Manual

Finca Santa Fé is located in Belisario Domínguez municipality, Motozintla region and was acquired in 1990 by Domingo Muguira Revuelta. Previously, this farm was called La Esperanza. Finca Santa Fé is cultivated with coffee varieties such as Catuaí, Caturra, Sarchimor, and Anacafé 14 at an altitude between 800 and 900 masl. Our coffee is processed using the wet process and has large drying yards and Guardiolas – type mechanical dryers. Our farm is certified Organic and is deeply committed to nature. Currently, there is a 15 hectares ecological reserve and an Environmental Management Unit (UMA) for the cultivation of red cedar. This farm is also diversified with 28 hectares of lemon trees.

TO CONTINUE READING, VISIT