

ABOUT THIS COFFEE

Fantanesh, our Quality Manager in Addis Ababa, visited the Bahati Blue farm in 2024. It was the first time she had found coffee trees under shade in Kenya. The farm is run by the couple Sheila and Alkis, who grow two varieties: Batian and Ruiru 11. Once the cherries are fully ripe, they lie overnight on drying beds and are pulped the following morning, before being washed.

Harvesting lasts all day, to harvest as many ripe cherries as possible and prevent them from falling off the trees, which would reduce the quality of the batches.

Here, a C quality, defined by the size and density of the beans, C being the third quality, after AA and AB.

Farm	Bahati Blue
Producer	Bahati Blue
Species	Arabica
Varieties	Batian, Ruiru 11
Process	Washed
Drying	Drying beds
Altitude	2030
Harvest	December - March
Type of harvest	Manual

